

HELLERTON HOUSE INT - DAY

Max and Chloe stand in front of the fireplace and square off.

CHLOE

You think I haven't felt it, but I have! The way things shift, the way I suddenly want things I never wanted before. The way I say yes when I meant to say no.

MAX

Chloe, I haven't rewind- you in years. I said I was sorry! I wish I never had, and I promised you I would never do it again!

CHLOE

Some days I wish you never had too.

Max realizes what she means. Chloe takes a deep breath. The weight of the line hangs in the air as Max collects herself.

MAX

You know, I think the worst feeling in the world is knowing you can't fix something. And the scariest feeling... is accepting inevitability.

Do you think it's inevitable that I'll just... rewind and manipulate you again?

Do you think trust is something we'll just never fix?

CHLOE

That's the hell of it, Max. I want to try. But how am I supposed to know if that want came from me or from you?

MAX

I don't know. I just know I want to help you. Until you can trust the difference.